

Fighting Fleas in 5 Easy Steps

Fleas, common external parasites, are most active in the summer months and can often infect pets through contact with other contaminated animals or with fleas in the environment. They feed on blood and the flea's bite can cause severe itching which can lead to hair-loss, inflammation and secondary skin infection to the host animal.

1 Use flea and tick protection on all dogs and cats in your home.

2 Vacuum the entire house, including under furniture, on upholstery and along baseboards.

3 Wash your pets' beddings and anything else they sleep or play on.

4 Re-treat each of your dogs and cats every 30 days.

5 Continue treating monthly, all year long.

INFESTATION ELIMINATION STRATEGIES:

- Empty the vacuum bag or canister into a plastic bag, seal it and throw the bag away immediately.
- Do not skip or delay monthly doses of flea and tick protection, even in the winter.
- Expect to see fleas after treatment as dying fleas move to the top of a pet's coat.
